

THIS PAGE IS PLANNED TO INTEREST THE HOME CIRCLE

LANSDUGH & BRO.

Ribbon Buyers,
Here Is Your Opportunity.

We were heavy buyers at that Ribbon Auction Sale in New York last week, and in consequence of our good buying have some extraordinary Ribbon bargains to offer you.

3-inch Fancy Taffeta Ribbon Corded, with satin stripes, all shades.
Worth 30c yard.

For 15c yard.

3-inch Check Ribbon, with satin stripes in all the new shades.
Worth 35c yard.

For 20c yard.

4-inch Silk Dresden Ribbon, in all the new effects and shades.
Worth 39c yard.

For 20c yard.

4-inch Silk Taffeta Ribbon, striped and figured, all colors.
Worth 40c yard.

For 20c yard.

4-inch All-silk Satin Brocade Ribbon, in black only.
Worth 50c yard.

For 30c yard.

Ribbons are much used this year. Could you want for a better opportunity? Remember we are yours until 10 tonight—these extra hours for your convenience.

Lansdough & Bro.
420, 422, 424, 426 7th St.

S. KANN, SONS & CO
8th and Market Space.

Ladies' Moire Francais
Waists, made exactly like the silk kind, full front, large Bishop sleeves, black velvet collars and velvet turnover cuffs, in assorted patterns and sizes.

Special Price $1.39.

Open tonight in order to do your Easter shopping.

S. KANN, SONS & CO
8th and Market Space.

Grand
Spring
Opening.

Souvenir prices in all departments this week the lowest ever quoted by any Furniture House in Washington. For instance: Splice Solid Oak Chamber Suite $12.50
Splice Silk Damask Parlor Suite, 50 CENTS
Solid Oak Suite 35c
Dining-room Chairs, 25c

GROGAN'S,
819-821-823 7th St. N. W.
BETWEEN H AND I STS.

ave a Talk with us regarding your DENTAL WISHES. Time and experience have long since taught us the art of accomplishing the very best results for the very least cost. Full set of the BEST ARTIFICIAL TEETH $8.00 EXTRACTING, the painless, pleasant sort, 50 CENTS. Other charges equally reasonable.
Evans Dental Parlors,
1217 Penna. Ave. N. W.

UNDERTAKERS.
J. WILLIAM LEE, UNDERTAKER,
332 Pa. Ave. N. W.
First-class service. Phone, 1389.
174-6m

Stroll's shoes

IS NOW MR. WHITNEY'S SON

Engagement to Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt Considered Settled.

Has Not Been Formally Announced as Yet—Other Gossip of Some Social Interest.

Although not formally announced, the engagement of Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt to Mr. Harry Payne Whitney, son of ex-Secretary William C. Whitney and heir in prospective of millions, is considered socially as a fact. Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt was lately the guest of Mrs. Mackay-Smith of this city, who is a connection of the Wynnes.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt was Miss Wynne, of Cincinnati, and aunt of Mr. Edward Erskine Wynne, whose marriage to Miss Helen Steele took place in this city a few weeks ago. Mrs. and Miss Vanderbilt, it will be remembered, came on to the present at the wedding of their relative.

Miss Vanderbilt, while not a beauty, is an attractive, graceful girl, of many accomplishments, and is only twenty years old. She was bridesmaid for Pauline Whitney, who married Mr. Puget, of England, last fall, assisting with Mr. Whitney, to whom she is now reported engaged.

Mr. Whitney is a fine-looking fellow of natural manners, void of affectation, a graduate of Yale, and an athlete of excellent record. The match is regarded favorably by the friends of the young people, who quite glory in the fact that the sweet little heiress will remain an American and not follow the "international marriage" fad.

Great interest centers in all accounts of preparation for the Harrison-Dimick wedding. The bridegroom is described as most beautiful. Heavy pearl-colored tulle is the material, trimmed with rich tulle lace, which veils the bodice and sleeves, forming a Louis Quatorze jacket effect. A dainty capote of blue velvet, ornamented with a white agilette and pompon and a coil of lace held by a diamond clasp. The lace of the corsage will also be caught with a diamond star.

The "going away" gown is of gray, the tulle cord opening over a plaided silk blouse. A black straw hat with crimson ribbons is to be worn with it.

President Harrison and his bride will have their wedding dinner on the train, leaving soon after 4 o'clock, the hour for the ceremony, and departing for Indianapolis.

Misses Annie Green, Eva Keeler, and Nellie Tourne, chartered by Mrs. F. L. Johnson, will leave soon for the South for a short visit. The party will sail from New York for Europe May 1, and the young ladies will study music for two years at the Berlin Conservatory.

HARRISON WEDDING CHAT.

THE latest New York gossip concerning the Harrison-Dimick marriage in that city on Monday next is as follows:

According to Mr. E. F. Tibbets, Gen. Harrison's private secretary, Rev. Dr. John Wesley Brown, of St. Thomas Church, will perform the ceremony. This is the clergyman who officiated at the Marlborough-Vanderbilt wedding.

THE musical program will be simple, and has been arranged by Organist George William Warren, of St. Thomas Church.

MRS. DIMICK'S most intimate friend, Mrs. Gray, of 709 Fifth avenue, who has just returned from Tampa Beach, Fla., will assist Mrs. Dimick in preparing for the wedding.

THE members of ex-President Harrison's former Cabinet and their families will find twelve pews reserved for them in the middle aisle of the church, and the only other guests, besides relatives, will be a few intimate friends. Admission will be by card.

IT IS possible that nearly all of the old members of the ex-President's Cabinet may be present at the wedding. Private Secretary E. F. Tibbets yesterday said that John W. Warren was expected to arrive from Europe before Sunday. Ex-Gov. Charles Foster, of Ohio, has not been heard from yet, but he is expected. Gen. John W. Noble, of St. Louis, may be unable to come, owing to business engagements.

LIET. J. F. PARKER, the bride's brother-in-law, will escort Mrs. Dimick to the church and give her away, and Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy will be the best man. The church will be simply decorated with lilies and roses.

A CAUSE of considerable comment is the non-appearance in New York of Gen. Harrison's children, Russell B. Harrison and Mrs. McKee. Mrs. McKee's excuse for not attending is that she has been exposed to the measles and her physician has ordered her to remain in Indianapolis.

THE DAY'S DISH.

Curried Oysters.

RAIN or a quart of oysters thoroughly. Heat for a few moments to draw out all superfluous liquor and drain again. Set aside in a shallow dish. Then mix together half a teaspoonful of butter, one teaspoonful of curry powder, four tablespoonfuls of the liquor from the oysters, one teaspoonful of scraped onion or of onion juice. Heat this mixture in your chafing dish and gradually add two-thirds of a teaspoonful of milk, with which has been mixed a small coffee-spoonful of salt. Stir hard and very smooth, then add the oysters and cook, for five or six minutes. Serve with rice croquettes.

"Pure and Sure."

Cleveland's
BAKING POWDER.

"I have used Cleveland's Baking Powder with entire satisfaction in the preparation of breads, biscuits and cakes." JULIET CORSON, Founder of New York Cooking School.

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

GLITTERING GOWNS.

NOW that Easter flowers and Easter robes are before us, we have not failed to neglect our friends, the sequins. They still hold a warm place in our hearts, and adorn many a new frock which will make its debut next Sunday. The Louis jackets require sequined revers, and surely collar and belt must match the revers.

For the more modest worn, in spite of the fact that it is offered at greatly reduced prices. Very pretty jet pieces for a gown may be secured at $1.50 each, while trimming, by the yard, may be had at 50 cents.

Complete jacket frocks, with skirts, may be bought. They are either jet or polka-dot, and are ready to be sewed on the gown after it is completed, a task which the most inexperienced may accomplish.

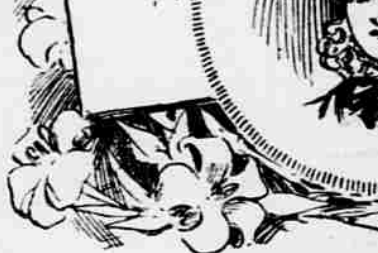

Blouses may also be bought in this shape, as well as capotes, revers, collars, cuffs and stocks.

For the more modest worn, there is nothing so effective as trimming by the yard. For 50 cents remarkably pretty trimming may be bought and by outlining the yoke and crossing the shoulders a gown may be handsomely adorned with little outlay.

It is also a good idea to make these things into yokes which are separate from your gown. Have your modiste make that up plain, and when add as many touches as you desire after the dress reaches you. By doing this you are enabled to make one gown do the service of a number.

HER CALM CONCLUSION.

A WOMAN who has had her fair share of attention said the other day: "Of all the men I have known in my life there have been only two who took the least interest in what I could tell them, in my thoughts, my tastes, my feelings. The others were quite willing that I should listen to their various adventures, their loves and hates; they expected an unrelaxing attention to their affairs, a smiling interest in all that concerned them, but when I began to tell of my own life, they turned away, and changed the subject, or listened in a perfunctory way which was even worse. And these were not particularly selfish men, and not at all unkind ones; they were good fellows with the best and most friendly feelings; it was simply not their nature to be interested. The two that listened were, I regret to say, not Americans, and I doubt whether in an emergency they would have been of much good to one, not from unwillingness, but from a general foreign helplessness. But their receptive attitudes made them very delightful companions, and it seems a pity that the native article, with his kindness, his hard workingness, his trustworthiness and his general good qualities, should not be a bit more sympathetic, too."

Easter Fancies.

Inside the Tea Kettle.

If every housekeeper who reads this paragraph should go straight to her kitchen, lift the kettle and carry it to the window, where a strong light will disclose its interior, nine out of ten of them will find a rusty layer of lime, iron and drops that effectively prevent any good flavor from being issued from it. The kettle needs the same frequent and thorough care that any kitchen utensil needs. Into such, having it already warm, put fresh, filtered water, boil rapidly and use at once, and one of the large aids to palatable foods is secured.—Exchange.

Easter.

If ye then be risen
With the Christ of God,
Let not sense becloud,
Climb with steps unslumbering
Himalayan peaks,
Where above earth's rumbling,
Christ, the Saviour, speaks.
—Benjamin Van.

KNIGHTS OF MALTA.

Capital City Commandery Holds a Most Interesting Meeting.

Capital City Commandery, No. 169, A. and I. O. of Knights of Malta, at their meeting held last night at the Mechanics' Hall, conferred degrees upon several candidates for membership, as black knights, and transacted other important business. On Friday next the third degree will be conferred upon more than a dozen members.

Crossed Commandery, No. 180, K. of M., meets next Monday. Several candidates will be initiated and arrangements made for the purchase or lease of a building for the use of Malta commanderies and a free library. Another commandery, it is reported, is being organized in this city.

Marriage Licenses.

Licenses to marry have been issued as follows: Frank L. Earis and Fannie Wooster. John A. Healy and Marion C. Downing. Dutton E. Dudley and Annie Bennett, both of Alexandria.

Open Tonight.
Open Tonight.
Open Tonight.
Open Tonight.
Open Tonight.
Open Tonight.

Bon
Marche.

IS THE DAY OF FLOWERS

Beautiful Buds and Blossoms
Found on Every Side.

EACH ONE MUST HAVE POSEY

Florists Have Been Busting This Week
Than for a Long Time Past—Little
Still in the Lead—The Spring Blossoms, Though, Are the Favorites—For Indoor Decoration.

Have you selected your Easter posy yet? Of course, you know you must wear some kind of flower tomorrow, because it is a day of flowers, and because everybody else will be decorated. You can get them in the market, at the flower stores, any and every where, and whatever variety you prefer, from the tender violet with its modestly drooping head to the bright and stately Easter lily, it will be permissible.

For the past week the florists have been the busiest people in town. The demand for flowers and floral decorations for Easter has been greater this year than ever before, and the supply has been correspondingly increased. The flower stores have been the most attractive places in the city and for the last few days the throngs have been so great that the florists have had hardly enough room to display the plants. But the rush will end this evening, and the men who grow beautiful flowers will have signs of relief and satisfaction, as they sit down to count up the receipts for the week.

FLOWERS PLENTY.

"Flowers of all kinds are here in enormous quantities," said an expert florist to a Times reporter, "and consequently cheaper. The latter fact probably accounts for the large quantities that have been sold. Nearly all the florists have had all they could do during the week, filling orders for cut flowers and floral decorations."

The Lily is Always in Greatest Demand

At Easter, the Harlequin, or Easter lily, being the most popular flower for Easter.

A half-score of bobo and knights without armor stood behind the wickerwork in one side of Judge Kimball's photograph gallery this morning, and had the X rays of municipal justice flashed upon them. It was a portion of the advance guard of tramps, already referred to in The Times, that has begun its spring migration from the South to the North.

Frank Ross, said to be a distant relation of the famous Charlie Ross, who was never found, was the first prisoner compelled to appear under the glaring, searching, irrefragable light of Judge Kimball's tube. Ross had been in town two days. During that time, the shadowgraph showed, he had repeatedly begged for money. He tried to sell pencils, but there were too many competitors in the field.

"What have you to say for yourself, Frank?" asked the judge, looking at the man who, in the shadowgraph, had been begging for money.

"Well, judge, your honor, I couldn't get hold of anything to do, and I begged."

To prove the first part of his statement, he laid in the air his left hand, which had been at some time in life cut off in the middle of the palm, and a stub of a thumb remained with which to do his "begging."

Again the X rays were flashed, and the court said:

HAD ELEVEN CENTS.

It was no use to attempt to defraud the strong light, and the prisoner said he had 11 cents in his pocket. He said he was willing to take that and his departure from the court was hastened. If the court did not raise strenuous objections, Judge Kimball decided that begging in the spring-time should be stopped in the bud, though, and he sent the prisoner down to the farm for fifteen days for an early spring vacation.

"Look pleasant now," said Judge Kimball, one of the photographers Kimball's chief assistants and an artist of great promise, as he invited Rachael Fields to stand for a shadowgraph. With Prof. Roentgen's discovery it matters little about the color of the subject, but it is a matter of fact that the same in the picture. Rachael is black. She lives in Willow Tree alley. She is given the reputation by the neighbors of grunting drunk and a half day in the week.

Miss Fields thought it would be nice to have her baby's picture taken, too, so she brought it to the court with her. The pockmarked woman was not two years old, and it was responsible for the rescue of the mother from the other side of the workhouse walls.

"This woman spit on my little boy's head," said a neighbor. "I told her not to do that, as it wasn't gentlemanly. Then she says to me, 'I'll spit on your head if you don't let me.' She's always drunk and I'm afraid she'll kill my children."

Another witness said she saw the gentle Rachael pick up a brick and threaten to leave Willow Tree alley as only a memory in Washington.

The accused took the stand. She never expected to be in the heat of child. She never swore. She seldom drank. A brick was as hard to find loose in Willow Tree alley as it is for a stranger to find his way about Boston, so, of course, she threw her baby's picture to the street. The woman at home and there was no one to take care of them, so she was released with an injunction to sin no more.

"That's a good picture," said a police court lawyer as Artist Kimball held up the following impression on the sensitive plate: James Redden, address, Washington, color, white, but crimsoned by alcoholic injections; age, doubtful; charge, obstructing the sidewalk with his stature.

The policeman who ran the subject in James Redden, said he had been in the street in front of the Metropolitan M. E. Church, just as Guy's evangelist's lecture. The patrolman found he could not take one without the other, so he marched Redden and his mythical companion away to the station house.

James said this morning that he would admit he had taken a pair of drinks last night. So true to life was the shadowgraph that it showed distinctly, and Redden admitted it, that the arteries carried the red liquor directly to his head, where he had lost control both of the liquor and his head. A five-dollar fine would pay the bill, said the chief picture taker, but James did not expect to have to pay for his photo and had not the price in his pocket. He explained that he had twelve barrels of kale to sell today, however, and the Judge gave him until Monday to bring in the money.

Thomas Ware drove up Tenth street so rapidly yesterday that the X rays showed, and a witness testified, that he would have run over a cable car or Washington Monument had either been in the road. When he reached H street Alexander Brooks came driving eastward with a pony and cart. Witnesses said Ware was intoxicated, and that he halted loudly, and that if he had been about his eyes would have been green with envy at the sight of Ware's speedy steed.

It was the old physical problem of at-

500
SHIRT
WAIST
BARGAINS.

We have something in the way of a surprise for the hundreds of Easter shoppers that will throng these streets today. This is, however, but one incident among a host of great opportunities here.

SILK WAISTS.

We have closed out from a Silk Waist manufacturer 500 Sample Waists; magnificent display of Stripes, Bretons, Checked and Persian effects, velvet and lace trimmed. Waists that are worth from $3.00 to $8.00 will be divided into two lots, on separate tables, as follows:

LOT 1, - - - - - $2.79
LOT 2, - - - - - $3.98

Comprises China, Foulards, etc., in Stripes, Checks, and Figured effects—very large "Tulip" sleeves, velvet and lace trimmings. Regular values, $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00. Special price, $2.79.

LOT 2—$3.98.

This lot is composed of handsome creations in Silk, Taffeta, Foulards, Satin Duchesse, some with pointed sailor collars, trimmed with velvet and lace, finished with small pearl buttons, others with velvet straps reaching to shoulder, with cut steel buckles; other elegant styles, only given to be appreciated. Regular prices, $5.00, $6.00, $7.00 and $8.00. Special price, $3.08.

KING'S PALACE,

812-814 7th St. N. W.
and 715 Market Space.

HALF SCORE OF TRAMPS

They Filled the Dock in Judge Kimball's Court.

FIRST UP FOR BEGGING

He Had Eleven Cents, But That Was Not Enough to Relieve Him of the Charge of Vagrancy—Color Makes No Difference in This Temple of Justice.

A half-score of bobo and knights without armor stood behind the wickerwork in one side of Judge Kimball's photograph gallery this morning, and had the X rays of municipal justice flashed upon them. It was a portion of the advance guard of tramps, already referred to in The Times, that has begun its spring migration from the South to the North.

Frank Ross, said to be a distant relation of the famous Charlie Ross, who was never found, was the first prisoner compelled to appear under the glaring, searching, irrefragable light of Judge Kimball's tube. Ross had been in town two days. During that time, the shadowgraph showed, he had repeatedly begged for money. He tried to sell pencils, but there were too many competitors in the field.

"What have you to say for yourself, Frank?" asked the judge, looking at the man who, in the shadowgraph, had been begging for money.

"Well, judge, your honor, I couldn't get hold of anything to do, and I begged."

To prove the first part of his statement, he laid in the air his left hand, which had been at some time in life cut off in the middle of the palm, and a stub of a thumb remained with which to do his "begging."

Again the X rays were flashed, and the court said:

HAD ELEVEN CENTS.

It was no use to attempt to defraud the strong light, and the prisoner said he had 11 cents in his pocket. He said he was willing to take that and his departure from the court was hastened. If the court did not raise strenuous objections, Judge Kimball decided that begging in the spring-time should be stopped in the bud, though, and he sent the prisoner down to the farm for fifteen days for an early spring vacation.

"Look pleasant now," said Judge Kimball, one of the photographers Kimball's chief assistants and an artist of great promise, as he invited Rachael Fields to stand for a shadowgraph. With Prof. Roentgen's discovery it matters little about the color of the subject, but it is a matter of fact that the same in the picture. Rachael is black. She lives in Willow Tree alley. She is given the reputation by the neighbors of grunting drunk and a half day in the week.

Miss Fields thought it would be nice to have her baby's picture taken, too, so she brought it to the court with her. The pockmarked woman was not two years old, and it was responsible for the rescue of the mother from the other side of the workhouse walls.

"This woman spit on my little boy's head," said a neighbor. "I told her not to do that, as it wasn't gentlemanly. Then she says to me, 'I'll spit on your head if you don't let me.' She's always drunk and I'm afraid she'll kill my children."

Another witness said she saw the gentle Rachael pick up a brick and threaten to leave Willow Tree alley as only a memory in Washington.

The accused took the stand. She never expected to be in the heat of child. She never swore. She seldom drank. A brick was as hard to find loose in Willow Tree alley as it is for a stranger to find his way about Boston, so, of course, she threw her baby's picture to the street. The woman at home and there was no one to take care of them, so she was released with an injunction to sin no more.

"That's a good picture," said a police court lawyer as Artist Kimball held up the following impression on the sensitive plate: James Redden, address, Washington, color, white, but crimsoned by alcoholic injections; age, doubtful; charge, obstructing the sidewalk with his stature.

The policeman who ran the subject in James Redden, said he had been in the street in front of the Metropolitan M. E. Church, just as Guy's evangelist's lecture. The patrolman found he could not take one without the other, so he marched Redden and his mythical companion away to the station house.

James said this morning that he would admit he had taken a pair of drinks last night. So true to life was the shadowgraph that it showed distinctly, and Redden admitted it, that the arteries carried the red liquor directly to his head, where he had lost control both of the liquor and his head. A five-dollar fine would pay the bill, said the chief picture taker, but James did not expect to have to pay for his photo and had not the price in his pocket. He explained that he had twelve barrels of kale to sell today, however, and the Judge gave him until Monday to bring in the money.

Thomas Ware drove up Tenth street so rapidly yesterday that the X rays showed, and a witness testified, that he would have run over a cable car or Washington Monument had either been in the road. When he reached H street Alexander Brooks came driving eastward with a pony and cart. Witnesses said Ware was intoxicated, and that he halted loudly, and that if he had been about his eyes would have been green with envy at the sight of Ware's speedy steed.

It was the old physical problem of at-

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

20 Per Cent Discount on China, Glassware, and Housefurnishing Goods.

The entire stock of J. W. Boteler & Son to be sold at the above discount! As this house has always held the reputation of carrying the finest class of China, Glassware, Bric-a-Brac, Lamps, and House Furnishing Goods—the opportunity will be one well worth taking advantage of.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.

Assignee's Sale Stock of
J. W. Boteler & Son.